A NEW TRIAL FOR HENRY DAVIS.

WE OF CARDU

Henry Davis, the negro boy who has been twice convicted of killing Mr. Jas E. Suber, has again been come up for the third time at the approaching term of court. The opinion which secures a new trial for Supreme Court last week in response to an appeal presented by his attor-Jas. W. Hanahan. Mr. Suber was shot by Davis on August 10th, 1896. Almost everybody is more or less familiar with the facts in this now celebrated case and we shall not give them tere.

The following extracts from the opinion of the Supreme Court granting the prisoner a new trial appeared in the State of last Sunday:

The grounds of appeal allege that the circuit judge commented on the facts, in violation of that provision of the constitution which intercedes such
